

CREED

The Creed is our statement of belief. It is our common beliefs that identify us as Catholic Christians. These resources help us to learn more about our faith and share that faith with others.

Vatican	The Catechism of the Catholic Church Explains the Creed line by line.
United States Conference of Catholic Bishops	USCCB Beliefs and Teachings Many resources to explore about what the Church teaches. US Catechism for Adults in English US Catechism for Adults in Spanish
Catholic Websites	Finding God, by Loyola Press We use this text at our school. Parent resources are plentiful and free. My favorite is the interactive game called Fishers of Faith (FOF), which can be found at the end of each unit of every grade level. Our Sunday Visitor Religious Education Courses, Enough material here for the entire family. Once you figure out how to use the free log-in credentials provided on this PDF form, you will have access to a mountain of resources such as entire textbooks, worksheets, activities, quizzes, tests, etc. Sadlier Religious Education Courses, Ditto what was said above. Catholic Formed, Free for 40 days. Great Catholic videos for the whole family. The program "Brother Francis" is my 3-year-old granddaughter's favorite. Teen and adult movies also are available. Films vetted by concerned Catholics. Loyola Press Video Correlations YouTube has lots of great stuff as well as some pretty bad stuff. Safely access these videos for children 1-8th grades. English and Spanish Parent Information and Ideas, Loyola Press, Short articles for parents to help them better form their children in the faith. A Catechist Journey. Loyola Press' Joe Paprocki's website. Word on Fire A wealth of resources by Bishop Robert Barron covering many areas of our faith.
